Featured Wine

Francois et Julien Pinon "Silex Noir"
Chenin Blanc, Demi-Sec

glass 16      bottle 49

100% Chenin Blanc, Demi-Sec (a touch off-dry)—these grapes are grown in Silex Noir soils, a rare black flint found almost exclusively in this tiny corner of Vouvray, the Vallée de Cousse. The flinty soils drain well and thus are warmer and help the grapes ripen earlier than other parcels. Overall vine age is 45 years on average, and the farming has been certified organic since 2007.

The grapes are hand-harvested, rigorously sorted and directly pressed. The juice flows by gravity into underground tanks for a spontaneous native-yeast fermentation that lasts 2–3 months. The wine is aged on its fine lees for 4–5 months in a variety of old oak barrels ranging from 500 liter demi-muids to 20 hectoliter foudres.

The resulting wine is aromatic with florality and stone fruit leading the way, and a hint of smokiness. The ample acidity balances the fruit on the palate (peach, pineapple, pear) while still lending minerality.

With a bit of heft on the mid-palate, don't be shy from trying this with richer seafood dishes, or dishes featuring chicken, game birds, or pork. The slightly off-dry characteristic of this wine compliments spice-laden dishes nicely, as well.
